The Unsung Heroes

Iowa's health and human services sector. The summit aims to empower and equip these leaders with the tools and strategies necessary to strengthen their impact within their communities, and objectives include fostering resilience through mind-body connections, enhancing personal leadership skills, and building a supportive network among peers. The target audience is professionals across the health and human services spectrum, from frontline workers to executive leaders, all of whom play a crucial role in supporting the needs of Iowa's children, individuals, families, and communities.
