Background

Your Life Iowa (YLI) is the single go-to resource for individuals and their friends/family to access when facing a problem with substance use, gambling, mental health, or suicidal thoughts. YLI’s “re-launch” was the result of two distinct RFP processes, combining three previously distinct and separate websites and helplines (Your Life Iowa, DrugFreeInfo.org and 1-800-BETS OFF). This new integrated system launched in July 2017 when Foundation 2, an Iowa-based nonprofit human service agency offering suicide prevention and crisis intervention programs to people of all ages, was awarded the YLI contract. Foundation 2 has provided crisis counseling by phone since 1970.

YLI Mission

Offer non-judgmental support, connection and information for individuals, and their families and friends, who don’t know where to turn for help.

YLI Services

Your Life Iowa services include 24/7 phone, text, and chat crisis support services for all Iowans, regardless of age, income, location, or any other factors. Per the Your Life Iowa contract, Foundation 2 Crisis Services, a non-profit crisis services organization based out of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, provide these crisis support services. Additional support and resources can be found on yourlifeiowa.org and on the Your Life Iowa Facebook page.
When an individual contacts Your Life Iowa, they are often struggling with challenges including substance use, problem gambling, mental health, and thoughts of suicide. The Your Life Iowa counselors provide gentle, non-judgmental listening and guidance, talking each individual through their situation. They can provide assurance and guidance; connect callers with additional resources, and more to help navigate crises and long-term concerns. All services are free and confidential.

Iowa Contacts

While Your Life Iowa focuses on serving Iowans, we do not limit our service area. Of all contacts, 72 percent came from Iowans in SFY 2021.

Anna*, a woman in her thirties, called Your Life Iowa late at night in early 2021 seeking support. She reported having a long-standing gambling addiction and was outside a casino at the time of the call; she had just lost over $1,300 gambling in the casino. She told our counselor that she had $1,000 left, but that’s all the money she had in the world.

Our counselor empathized with the caller, provided support and compassion, and discussed options that could be beneficial given the caller’s situation. While the woman was ambivalent about self-excluding, our counselor referred her to a local treatment provider and, collaboratively with the caller, helped develop a plan where the woman would temporarily give her remaining funds to her mother for safekeeping. The contact ended on a positive note, with the caller coming away with a concrete plan and with Your Life Iowa helping directly connect her with treatment.

Figure 5: Referrals by type: gambling, substance use, mental health, out of state mental health and non-mental health crisis.
John called Your Life Iowa and reported struggling with depression and anxiety. He had retired just over a year ago, and his mental health had started to decompensate around that time. It had gotten to the point where he did not want to leave his home and had lost motivation to do things he previously enjoyed, plus there were physical impairments with which he was struggling that made daily life painful and difficult. Our counselor empathized with the caller and worked to elicit positive components of his life along with prosocial coping skills he had been able to develop. A suicide risk assessment was conducted as well, and the caller was found to not be at-risk of suicide. Our counselor continued to provide support throughout the call, and the caller indicated he would be following up with both his medical doctor and therapist. The man reported being glad to have YLI there as a support and indicated he would call back if needed.

Testimonials

NON-JUDGMENTAL

Joanna’s Story

Joanna called Your Life Iowa because she had been struggling with IV methamphetamine use. She hoped to find inpatient treatment options in her area. Our counselor provided support and trauma-informed encouragement to the client while locating inpatient treatment options. Our counselor also conducted a suicide screen while speaking to the young woman, and she endorsed that she had been having some vague suicidal thoughts recently but was not having any currently, nor did she endorse a plan or intent. Our counselor was able to have the client loop in family who was also home while still on the line to provide the woman support during this difficult time, and to ensure she could safely get to one of the treatment facilities upon intake. Both the client and her two family members thanked our counselor for the assistance provided.

GUIDE TO BETTER HEALTH

Miguel’s Story

Miguel* called the Your Life Iowa crisis line one evening and reported having thoughts of suicide. The caller had been consuming alcohol as well which had not helped him to feel better. During the suicide screening, the man endorsed two specific plans but indicated he did not truly want to die and wanted help. He was tearful throughout the call, and the YLI counselor provided support and compassion while assessing for the caller’s immediate risk of harm to himself. Our counselor explained and offered to have Mobile Crisis Outreach (MCO) respond to better provide some in-person support to the caller (and also to help mitigate the risk of suicide that was evident). The caller accepted this offer and indicated he could keep himself safe until MCO arrived, and additional safety plan components were put into place.

YOU’RE NEVER ALONE

Mike’s Story

Mike* had been struggling with alcohol addiction and called Your Life Iowa late one evening. He was very upset. He had been recently charged with DUI and related charges and was worried about going to prison along with the repercussions for his family. Our counselor empathized with the caller and conducted a suicide risk assessment to ensure he was not at risk of self-harm or suicide. Our counselor connected the man to a local outpatient treatment provider. The man reported a strong support system was in place, but was struggling with alcohol use. Collaborating with the caller, our counselor helped the man locate AA meetings nearby as well as he could get additional support for his alcohol-related concerns. A collaborative safety plan for the evening helped the caller included connecting to a positive, non-substance-using friend with whom he could stay and receive some extra support for the night.
