

A photograph of a man with dark curly hair and a beard, wearing a grey sweater and a red and white striped apron, smiling down at a young girl with curly hair who is also smiling. The background is softly blurred, showing what appears to be a kitchen setting. The image is framed by a thick orange border on the top and right sides.

Mike's a devoted dad. AND A STRUGGLING DRUG USER.

People struggling with addiction have interests and passions. They have people they care about – and people who care about them. But they need help so they can live the life they want. And deserve.

See the person. Not the addiction.
